How will it Affect You and Your Projects?

In September 2009 California adopted a new General Permit for Storm Water Discharges Associated with Construction and Land Disturbance

CONTRACTORS, ENGINEERS, CITY AND COUNTY PLANNERS, CONSULTANTS, PROJECT MANAGERS, ESTIMATORS,
AND ANYONE WHO MAY BE INVOLVED IN A PROJECT
DISTURBING OVER 1 ACRE OF SOIL

Activities (Order No. 2009-0009-DWQ, NPDES No. CAS000002). These changes will affect how your projects are designed, implemented, maintained, monitored, and reported. Join ENPLAN's Clay Guzi and guest speaker from the CA Regional Water Quality Control Board, Andrew Jensen, for a clear and concise informative session on the significant changes brought about by the new permit. The course will provide detailed instruction on the new permit including:

- How to file Permit Registration Documents (PRDs); the new process for obtaining permit coverage.
- How to calculate your project's risk level. The State has developed methodology to determine a project's sediment and receiving water risks; all sites will fall into a risk assessment level of 1-3.
- What the different monitoring, sampling, and reporting requirements are for each risk assessment level.
- What the newly established numeric effluent limitations (NELs) and numeric action levels (NALs) for pollutants of concern will be.
- What to do if and when your site's discharges exceed the NELs and/or NALs.
- How to utilize the State's new electronic filing and reporting system
- How to implement your project and more.
